CarlosX360 Network reaches 4 Million Pageviews across multiple websites

On July 28th, Carlos Morales has learned that CarlosX360 Network has reached a new milestone. Carlos owns many websites with the intention of reaching all kinds of passionate Video Game players by two different methods. Carlos creates websites, or purchases preexisting websites with strong potential of attracting targeted niches.

What is this Press Release about? CarlosX360 Network reached 1 Million Visits, 2 Million Sessions and 4 Million Pageviews worldwide as of July 28th, 2021. For a detailed picture of how this was accomplished, refer to the stats below...

Who is this Press Release intended for? Carlos wants to attract any accredited investor in any shape or form. CarlosX360 Co., Ltd. was designed with the future in mind. Carlos' biggest passion is Video Games, but Video Games has become an expensive investment, with an exponential potential for profit. Video Games is a part of technology, and new devices are coming fast to reinvigorate the industry in ways that hasn't been done since 1982 when NES was revolutionizing the industry. More, more, and more tech companies are entering the VR space with their own devices. Video Games are here to stay, but the risk is too great, even though there are tremendous rewards to be had. Carlos has to prove to investors there is a market, and prove to investors Carlos can build & grow a business or businesses. Carlos wants to enter the tech sector, as it goes hand-in-hand with Video Games. Carlos isn't just looking for capital. Carlos is looking for advice, resources, ideas, and guidance.

50 second pitch to investors: Video Games is a 130 Billion dollar industry. Call of Duty is in the lead currently with 250 Million copies or customers reached, and each quarter they accumulate $1 Billion.

CarlosX360 is a global network of blogs and forums in the video game industry with 1 Million Users worldwide, and 4 Million pageviews worldwide.

How will you return my funds? Hey, Carlos planned ahead of this. That's why the name isn't constrained to a particular niche. Carlos intends to go not just outside of gaming, but also have multiple revenue streams to help offset costs to do one thing or the other.

In the past, CarlosX360 Co., Ltd. built niche blogs and forums. Today, that's still the case, and it will be part of how Carlos sells games to consumers. In the past, Carlos was doing niche game sites. Starting in 2019, Carlos has no plans to do niche game sites anymore. Apart from large-scale niche subjects, such as CODFourms, which is a Call of Duty Forum that has been running since 2009 under Carlos' guidance. How Carlos makes money from these sites are by traditional banner ads, but also CAPTCHA Ads that display as you register.

While the websites aren't actually apps in the sense you can download an "app" from the store to play a game, watch videos, or full-blown apps like Instagram, but most sites on my network can have an app installed as "Progressive Web App" (or PWA). This message is for app investors that read this press release.

To become profitable is simple. Scaling the websites that are currently live. As of right now, there is a market for websites, blogs or forums that don't "clickbait." (Ahem, more like hatebait.) Many people are looking for alternative ways to get news.

On the consumer side of the company, Carlos plans to create Video Games, but it costs $50 Million to develop the game itself. This isn't burnt through a single year, it's burnt through 5 years of operation. To understand this more thoroughly, Carlos posted a new blog post on medium here:

<https://carlosx360.medium.com/my-startup-pitch-during-pandemic-late-2019-2021-1b58247766c7>

We are in the midst of a transitional generation leap into the Next Generation consoles. Project Scarlett was revealed as Xbox Series X, and Microsoft revealed a smaller, budget system called Xbox Series S. Sony, on the other hand revealed the Next Generation Playstation console: PlayStation 5. Nintendo revealed Nintendo Switch OLED, and Valve revealed the Steam Deck handheld. Xbox Series consoles and PlayStation 5 consoles are available now, but are very hard to find. Nintendo Switch is available now in 2 models at the time of writing: Nintendo Switch, and Nintendo Switch Lite.

When will we get our funds back? When the company is either profitable or has gone IPO, and still is profitable.

Where is CarlosX360 Co., Ltd. currently headquartered? In Silicon Valley. In a small city called San Carlos.

Carlos' long term goals are ambitious, but to realize those goals for CarlosX360 Co., Ltd. and any CarlosX360 project, it requires more than a team, capital, or resources.
